Commentary

In August, the NAV per share was up 2.0%, the share price was up 1.3% and the MSCI World Health Care Index was down 0.1%.

Market volatility continued to subside in August. Broad markets moved higher with technology stocks mostly leading the way. Other sectors that are more closely tied to economic recovery also helped push the S&P 500 to all-time highs in the period. Healthcare stocks, on a relative basis and despite the continuing pandemic, lost some momentum in the month. Perhaps it is COVID-fatigue or wariness over the looming U.S. Presidential election. Nevertheless, the Company was able to record positive absolute and relative returns in August.

The largest contributor in the month was the novel diagnostics company, Natera up over 30% in the month after a positive second quarter report. Moreover, The American College of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists endorsed the company's non-invasive prenatal test kit for all pregnancies. Another key contributor was the specialty pharmaceutical company, Horizon Therapeutics. The company posted a blow-out quarter led by the newly launched product, Tepezza (teprotumumab), the only marketed drug treatment for thyroid eye disease. A third investment that contributed over 60 basis points of outperformance was the emerging biotechnology company, Mirati Therapeutics. The share price for the oncology player was up in the month as investor anticipation increased for the next data disclosure for their lead clinical candidate for the treatment of lung cancer.

Most sub-sectors contributed to the positive performance in the month. The lone exception was emerging market healthcare stocks. There we saw profit-taking in COVID-19 related securities which had performed very well in June and July. The Company participated in some profit taking in the month and reduced exposure to emerging markets by approximately 200 basis points.

We expect many healthcare related catalysts in September. Multiple broker and medical conferences will kick off the autumn season. We expect many data readouts for the plethora of COVID-related vaccines and therapies in development. And, of course, we will have first U.S. Presidential debate between incumbent President Trump and Democratic nominee, former Vice President Biden.

The Company offers a superior UK-listed opportunity for capital appreciation through a diversified portfolio of worldwide pharmaceutical, biotechnology, healthcare equipment, and healthcare services companies. The Portfolio Manager seeks to reduce risk through extensive fundamental research, worldwide exposure, position limits, and balanced market capitalisations. The Company's investment policy allows gearing, through borrowing, of up to 20% of net assets and a net exposure to derivative investments (excluding swaps) of up to 5% of the portfolio. Discount / Premium Control Mechanism

The Directors have adopted an active discount management policy to establish and support an improved rating in the Company's shares through the use of share buybacks, with a view to limiting the discount to the ex income NAV per share at which the shares trade to no more than 6%. Shares bought back may be held in treasury for reissue at later dates at not more than the discount at which they were purchased, and in any event at a discount no greater than 5% to the prevailing cum income net asset value per share. Any shares left in treasury are cancelled around the time of the AGM. In order to stop the share price trading at a significant premium to the NAV per share, the Company has the ability to issue new shares at a 0.7% premium to the cum income NAV per share.

Worldwide Healthcare Trust PLC conducts its affairs so that its shares can be recommended by independent financial advisers ("IFAs") to retail private investors. The shares are excluded from the Financial Conduct Authority's ("FCA's") restrictions which apply to non-mainstream investment products because they are shares in a UK-listed investment trust.
