Investment Policy

The healthcare sector is global and accessing this market as a UK investor can be difficult. The Company offers an opportunity to gain exposure to pharmaceutical, biotechnology and related companies in the healthcare sector on a global scale. The Company invests in large companies with market capitalisations of over U.S.$10bn, smaller companies below that size, as well as unquoted companies. The portfolio ranges from large multi-national pharmaceutical companies with multiple products to unquoted emerging biotechnology companies. The Company's investment policy allows gearing, through borrowing, of up to 20% of net assets and a net exposure to derivative investments (excluding swaps) of up to 5% of the portfolio. Equity swaps may also be used, counterparty exposure here is limited to 12% of the portfolio at the time of acquisition. Unquoted securities will not exceed 10% of the portfolio at the time of acquisition.

Commentary

In March, the NAV per share total return was +1.6%, the share price total return was +1.7% and the MSCI World Health Care Index was +2.3%, on a net total return, sterling adjusted basis.

Equity markets in March continued a five-month trend: moving higher and yet again achieving 52-week highs. Drivers included continued economic growth, easing inflation, vanishing fears of a recession, and a backdrop of expected rate cuts. Healthcare stocks mostly kept pace but did modestly lag the broader market in the month.

The Company's performance in March was fuelled by large cap stocks offset by small/mid-cap underperformance, particularly in Biotechnology. This was a product of investor debate around interest rate cuts which has become less probable. Overall, large cap Pharmaceuticals were the biggest contributors in the month, with four of the top five contributors including Novo Nordisk, AstraZeneca, Eli Lilly, and Merck. Of particular note was Novo Nordisk. The stock rose after a positive Capital Markets Day in which they debuted new data for a next generation, oral molecule for the treatment of obesity, further fanning the enthusiasm for this exploding therapeutic class. Additional contribution came from investments in non-therapeutics: Medical Technology, Healthcare Services, and Life Science Tools & Diagnostics.

There were no individual detractors of material import in which share price declines were driven by fundamental reasons. Overall, Emerging Biotechnology and China Healthcare stocks were the primary headwinds to performance. The former due to the aforementioned rate cut debate and the latter due to continued headlines around anti-China bills being proposed by the U.S. government.

Biotechnology M&A continued in the month of March (and into early April). The result has been 14 deals in the first 14 weeks of the year, surpassing the very brisk pace of 2023 and continuing the business development momentum which first inflected in April 2022. This, coupled with modest valuations, good prescription volume trends, a stable pricing environment, and an industry pipeline that is full and containing a plethora of catalysts, keeps us bullish for 2024.

DISCOUNT/PREMIUM CONTROL

It is the Board's policy to buy back the Company's shares if the share price discount to the net asset value per share exceeds 6% on an ongoing basis. Shares repurchased are held as treasury shares. Treasury shares can be sold back to the market at a later date at a premium to the cum income net asset value per share. Shareholders should note, however, that it remains very possible for the discount to be greater than 6% for extended periods of time particularly when sentiment towards the Company, the sector and to investment trusts generally remains poor. Any shares left in treasury are cancelled around the time of the Company's Annual General Meeting.

While buy backs may prove unable to prevent the discount from widening, they also enhance the net asset value per share for remaining shareholders and go some way to dampening discount volatility which can adversely affect investors' risk adjusted returns.

At times when there are unsatisfied buying orders for the Company's shares in the market, the Company has the ability to issue new shares or to re-issue treasury shares at a small premium to the cum income net asset value per share. This acts as an effective share price premium management tool.
