Investment Policy

The healthcare sector is global and accessing this market as a UK investor can be difficult. The Company offers an opportunity to gain exposure to pharmaceutical, biotechnology and related companies in the healthcare sector on a global scale. The Company invests in large companies with market capitalisations of over U.S.$10bn, smaller companies below that size, as well as unquoted companies. The portfolio ranges from large multi-national pharmaceutical companies with multiple products to unquoted emerging biotechnology companies. The Company's investment policy allows gearing, through borrowing, of up to 20% of net assets and a net exposure to derivative investments (excluding swaps) of up to 5% of the portfolio. Equity swaps may also be used, counterparty exposure here is limited to 12% of the portfolio at the time of acquisition. Unquoted securities will not exceed 10% of the portfolio at the time of acquisition.

Commentary

In November, the NAV per share total return was +1.8%, the share price total return was -1.7% and the MSCI World Health Care Index was +0.2%, on a net total return, sterling adjusted basis.

November was a tumultuous month for healthcare equities, primarily stemming from the outcomes and aftermath of the U.S. Presidential election. An unexpected Republican sweep, with former President Donald Trump returning to the White House, the Senate flipping to Republican control whilst the House remained under Republican command. Broad markets responded positively to this outcome, as did healthcare stocks initially, until the bombshell announcement that President-Elect Trump was nominating outspoken healthcare critic Robert F. Kennedy Jr. for Secretary of Health and Human Services. This triggered an extreme sell-off in healthcare, most notably in Pharmaceuticals (up to a 8% fall as per the DRG*) and Biotechnology (a negative swing in excess of 10% in the XBI) before a month-end recovery.

Overall, all healthcare sub-sectors – save for Healthcare Services – contributed to relative outperformance. Most resilient during the volatile month were Medical Technology stocks. Here, both allocation and stock picking benefited performance. Boston Scientific, Intuitive Surgical, and Stryker comprised three of the top four contributors in November. A combination of share price momentum, solid quarterly reports, and “insulation” from political rhetoric allowed each stock to post outsized gains, cumulatively contributing over 2.0% to absolute performance and over 1.2% to outperformance. Additional outperformance in the month came from Natera (outstanding quarter) and Large Cap Pharmaceuticals via the allocation effect as broad declines there benefited our underweight positioning.

In terms of detractors, Healthcare Services provided the only relative headwind, mostly due to idiosyncratic reasons. The share price for Evolent Health fell 40% (local currency) after unprecedented skyrocketing medical costs impacted the quarterly results and company guidance. Investors took profits in Tenet Healthcare after a CYTD stock move of >100%, noting post-election uncertainty for funding of Medicare and Medicaid programs under the Trump administration. Finally, we note the share price for UnitedHealth Group, which rose 10% post-election given the perception that a Republican administration is more friendly to heavily Medicare Advantage-exposed payors, like UnitedHealth Group. Given our material underweight positioning, this negatively impacted relative performance. We note that these factors pre-dated the 4 December 2024 assassination of Brian Thompson, a senior executive for UnitedHealth Group, which precipitated a 10% fall in the share price in the subsequent four trading days after his shooting.

DISCOUNT/PREMIUM CONTROL

It is the Board’s policy to buy back the Company’s shares if the share price discount to the net asset value per share exceeds 6% on an ongoing basis. Shares repurchased are held as treasury shares. Treasury shares can be sold back to the market at a later date at a premium to the cum income net asset value per share. Shareholders should note, however, that it remains very possible for the discount to be greater than 6% for extended periods of time particularly when sentiment towards the Company, the sector and to investment trusts generally remains poor.

While buy backs may prove unable to prevent the discount from widening, they also enhance the net asset value per share for remaining shareholders and go some way to dampening discount volatility which can adversely affect investors’ risk adjusted returns.

At times when there are unsatisfied buying orders for the Company’s shares in the market, the Company has the ability to issue new shares or to re-issue treasury shares at a small premium to the cum income net asset value per share. This acts as an effective share price premium management tool.

Risk Warnings

This document is for information purposes only and does not constitute an offer or invitation to purchase shares in the Company and has not been prepared in connection with any such offer or invitation. Before investing in the Company, or any other investment product, you should satisfy yourself as to its suitability and the risks involved, and you may wish to consult a financial adviser.

Any return you receive depends on future market performance and is uncertain. The Company does not seek any protection from future market performance so you could lose some or all of your investment. For information on the principal risks the Company is exposed to please refer to the Company's Annual Report or Investor Disclosure Document available at www.worldwidewh.com.

Shares in the Company are bought and sold on the London Stock Exchange. The price you pay or receive, like other listed shares, is determined by supply and demand and may be at a discount or premium to the underlying net asset value of the Company. Usually, at any given time, the price you pay for a share will be higher than the price you could sell it.

The Company has increased its exposure to investments via the use of an overdraft facility and derivatives, and this could potentially magnify any losses or gains made by the Company. The Annual Report and Investor Disclosure Document, available on the Company's website, include further details on the use of, and exposure to, derivatives.

Target Market

The Company is suitable for investors seeking an investment that aims to deliver total returns over the longer term (at least five years), is compatible with the needs for retail clients, professional clients and eligible counterparties, and is eligible for all distribution channels.

The Company may not be suitable for investors who are concerned about short-term volatility and performance, have low or no risk tolerance or are looking for capital protection, who are seeking a guaranteed or regular income, or a predictable return profile. The Company does not offer capital protection.

Value Assessment

Frostrow Capital LLP has conducted an annual Value Assessment on the Company in line with Financial Conduct Authority (FCA) rules set out in the Consumer Duty regulation. The Assessment focuses on the nature of the product, including benefits received and its quality, limitations that are part of the product, expected total costs to clients and target market considerations.

Within this, the assessment considers quality of services, performance of the Company (against both benchmark and peers), total fees (including management fees and entry and exit fees as applicable to the Company), and also considers whether vulnerable consumers are able to receive fair value from the product.

Frostrow Capital LLP concluded that the Company is providing value based on the above assessment.
