The Company offers an opportunity to gain exposure to pharmaceutical, biotechnology and related companies in the healthcare sector on a global scale. The Company invests in large companies with market capitalisations of over U.S.$10bn, smaller companies below that size, as well as unquoted companies. The portfolio ranges from large multi-national pharmaceutical companies with multiple products to unquoted emerging biotechnology companies. The Company's investment policy allows gearing, through borrowing, of up to 20% of net assets and a net exposure to derivative investments (excluding swaps) of up to 5% of the portfolio. Equity swaps may also be used, counterparty exposure here is limited to 12% of the portfolio at the time of acquisition. Unquoted securities will not exceed 10% of the portfolio at the time of acquisition.

Commentary

In April, the NAV per share total return was -1.9%, the share price total return was -0.3% and the return of the MSCI World Health Care Index on a net total return, sterling adjusted basis (Company's Benchmark) was -2.9%.

Global equity markets rebounded in April, shrugging off the intense geopolitical conflict in the Middle East, and reached all-time highs by the middle of the month. Strong Q1 earnings and a resurrection of the Magnificent 7 drove the market higher despite volatility from the Iran conflict and high oil prices.

Healthcare was a distinct laggard in the month with all Benchmark sub-sectors registering negative returns. The lone exception was Healthcare Services, which saw a pronounced rebound in Managed Care stocks after the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services increased Medicare Advantage payment rates for 2027. This preceded an unexpectedly strong quarterly reporting season for the sector. The Trust's performance benefitted from exposure to Managed Care through a number of holdings including UnitedHealth, Humana, BrightSpring Health Services, but particularly Elevance Health, the top contributor in the month, whose share price returned almost +30% (local currency) in April.

Another key contributor was Novo Nordisk, a stock in which the Trust vacated early in 2025 but repurchased in early April after it reached a 52-week low in March. The launch of the first oral GLP-1 for obesity, Wegovy "Pill", has been impressive, with weekly total prescriptions reaching over 200,000 in the U.S. after only 15 weeks. The stock moved nearly +20% (local currency) in April in anticipation of a strong quarterly report in May. Whilst other Pharmaceutical investments were detractors in the period (including Merck, AstraZeneca, and Pfizer), our underweight positioning here coupled with the outsized move in Novo Nordisk generated over 1% basis points of excess return in the month.

The largest single detractor in April was Boston Scientific. The stock has been in perpetual decline since the beginning of the year, offering investors repeat negative surprises. The most recent came at the end of March, in the form of a much-anticipated clinical trial readout for WATCHMAN, an implantable heart device used to reduce stroke risk in patients with atrial fibrillation. However, results were mixed, share price declines continued, and we reduced the position. The other detractor of import was Structure Therapeutics, an emerging biotechnology company with perhaps a best-in-class oral GLP-1 in development. However, the lack of any imminent new data disclosures, an increasing competitive environment, and an evaporating take-out premium weighed on the shares.

DISCOUNT/PREMIUM CONTROL

It is the Board's policy to buy back the Company's shares if the share price discount to the net asset value per share exceeds 6% on an ongoing basis. Shares repurchased are held as treasury shares. Treasury shares can be sold back to the market at a later date at a premium to the cum income net asset value per share. Shareholders should note, however, that it remains possible for the discount to be greater than 6% for extended periods of time, particularly when sentiment towards the Company, the sector and/or to investment trusts generally remains poor.

While buybacks may prove unable to prevent the discount from widening, they also enhance the net asset value per share for remaining shareholders and go some way to dampening discount volatility which can adversely affect investors' risk adjusted returns.

At times when there are unsatisfied buying orders for the Company's shares in the market, the Company has the ability to issue new shares or to re-issue treasury shares at a small premium to the cum income net asset value per share. This acts as an effective share price premium management tool.
